- (a) certificates which are considered as trustworthy certificates for the purposes of paragraph 3(b)(i) of the Third Schedule to the Act;
- (b) certificates which are not considered as trustworthy certificates for the purposes of paragraph 3(b)(i) of the Third Schedule to the Act.

(2) The accredited certification authority must associate a distinct certification practice statement approved by the Controller for each type of certificate issued.

(3) The accredited certification authority must draw the attention of subscribers and relying parties to the effect of using and relying on certificates that are not considered trustworthy certificates for the purposes of paragraph 3(b)(i) of the Third Schedule to the Act.

Issuance of certificates

16.—(1) In addition to the requirements specified in paragraph 14 of the Third Schedule to the Act, every accredited certification authority must comply with the requirements in this regulation in relation to the issuance of certificates.

(2) The certificate must contain or incorporate by reference information that is sufficient to locate or identify one or more repositories in which notification of the suspension or revocation of the certificate will be listed if the certificate is suspended or revoked.

(3) The practices and procedures set forth in the certification practice statement of an accredited certification authority must contain conditions with standards higher than those conditions specified in paragraph 14(2) of the Third Schedule to the Act.

(4) The subscriber identity verification method employed for issuance of certificates must be specified in the certification practice statement and is subject to the approval of the Controller during the application for accreditation.

(5) Where a certificate is issued to a person (called in this regulation the new certificate) on the basis of another valid certificate held by the same person (called in this regulation the originating certificate) and subsequently the originating certificate has been suspended or revoked, the certification authority that issued the new certificate must conduct investigations to determine whether it is necessary to suspend or revoke the new certificate.

(6) The accredited certification authority must provide a reasonable opportunity for the subscriber to verify the contents of the certificate before it is accepted.

(7) If the subscriber accepts the issued certificate, the accredited certification authority must publish a signed copy of the certificate in a repository mentioned in paragraph (2).

Suspension of certificates

18.—(1) This regulation applies only to every accredited certification authority which allows subscribers to request for suspension of certificates.

(2) Every accredited certification authority may provide for immediate revocation instead of suspension if the subscriber has agreed in writing.

(3) Upon receiving a request for suspension of a certificate under paragraph 16 of the Third Schedule to the Act, the accredited certification authority must ensure that the certificate is suspended and notice of the suspension published in the repository in accordance with paragraph 19 of the Third Schedule to the Act.

(4) An accredited certification authority may suspend a certificate that it has issued if the accredited certification authority has reasonable grounds to believe that the certificate is unreliable, regardless of whether the subscriber consents to the suspension; but the accredited certification authority must complete its investigation into the reliability of the certificate and decide within a reasonable time whether to reinstate the certificate or to revoke the certificate in accordance with paragraph 17 or 18 of the Third Schedule to the Act.

(5) It is the responsibility of any person relying on a certificate to check whether a certificate has been suspended.

(6) An accredited certification authority must suspend a certificate after receiving a valid request for suspension (in accordance with paragraph 16 of the Third Schedule to the Act); but if the accredited certification authority considers that revocation is justified in the light of all the evidence available to it, the certificate must be revoked in accordance with paragraph 17 or 18 of the Third Schedule to the Act.

(7) An accredited certification authority must check with the subscriber or his or her authorised agent whether the certificate should be revoked and whether to reinstate the certificate after suspension.

Maintenance of certification practice statement

21.—(1) Every accredited certification authority must use the Internet draft of the Internet X.509 Public Key Infrastructure Certificate Policy and Certification Practices Framework, adopted by the Internet Engineering Task Force and reproduced by the Controller on its Internet website, as a guide for the preparation of its certification practice statement.

(2) Any change to the certification practice statement during the term of the accreditation requires the prior approval of the Controller.

(3) Every accredited certification authority must highlight to its subscribers any limitation of their liabilities and, in particular, it must draw the subscribers' attention to the implication of reliance limits on their certificates.

(4) The subscriber identity verification method for the issuance, renewal, suspension and revocation of a certificate must be specified in the certification practice statement.

(5) A copy of the latest version of the certification practice statement, together with its effective date, must be filed with the Controller and published on the certification authority's Internet website accessible to members of the public.

(6) After the effective date, the latest version filed with the Controller will be the prevailing version for a particular certificate.

(7) Every accredited certification authority must log all changes to the certification practice statement together with the effective date of each change.

(8) An accredited certification authority must keep in a trustworthy manner a copy of each version of the certification practice statement, together with the date it came into effect and the date it ceased to have effect.

Secure digital signatures

22.—(1) The technical implementation of the requirements in paragraph 3 of the Third Schedule to the Act must be such as to ensure that it is computationally infeasible for any person, other than the person to whom the signature correlates, to have created a digital signature which is verified by reference to the public key listed in that person's certificate.

(2) The signature on its own should be such as to —

(a) ensure that the name or other unique identifiable notation of the person to whom the signature correlates be incorporated as part of the signature and cannot be replaced or forged; and

(b) readily present such indicia of identity to a person intending to rely on the signature.

(3) The technical implementation should ensure that —

(a) the steps taken towards the creation of the signature must be under the direction of the person to whom the signature correlates; and

(b) no other person can reproduce the sequence of steps to create the signature and thereby create a valid signature without the involvement or the knowledge of the person to whom the signature correlates.

(4) The technical implementation should indicate to a relying party of a signature whether the document or record that the signature purports to sign has been modified in any way and this indication should be revealed in the process of verifying the signature.

Compliance Audit Checklist

23.—(1) Every accredited certification authority must ensure that in the performance of its services it materially satisfies the Compliance Audit Checklist determined by the Controller and published on the Controller's Internet website.

(2) An auditor, when determining whether a departure from the Compliance Audit Checklist is material, must exercise reasonable professional judgment as to whether a condition that does not strictly comply with the Compliance Audit Checklist is or is not material, taking into consideration the circumstances and the system as a whole.

(3) Without limiting the situations which the auditor may consider to be material, the following incidents of non-compliance are to be considered to be material:

- (a) any non-compliance relating to the validity of a certificate;
- (b) the performance of the functions of a trusted person by a person who is not suitably qualified;
- (c) the use by an accredited certification authority of any system other than a trustworthy system.

(4) The Compliance Audit Checklist must be interpreted in a manner that is reasonable in relation to the context in which a system is used and is consistent with law.

(5) Despite an auditor's assessment of whether a departure from the Compliance Audit Checklist is material, the Controller may make his or her own assessment and reach a conclusion for the purpose of paragraph (1) which is at variance with that of the auditor.

(6) Every accredited certification authority must provide every subscriber with a trustworthy system to generate his or her key pair.

(7) Every accredited certification authority must provide the mechanism to generate and verify digital signatures in a trustworthy manner and the mechanism provided must also indicate the validity of the signature.

(8) If the digital signature is not valid, the mechanism provided should indicate if the invalidity is due to the integrity of the document or the signature and the mechanism provided must also indicate the status of the certificate.

(9) For mechanisms provided by third parties other than the accredited certification authority, the resulting signature is considered secure only if the accredited certification authority endorses the implementation of such mechanisms in conjunction with its certificate.

(10) Every accredited certification authority is responsible for the storage of keys (including the subscriber's key and the accredited certification authority's own key) in a trustworthy manner.

(11) The Controller may publish on its Internet website further details of the Compliance Audit Checklist for compliance by every accredited certification authority.
