(iii) acting within that authorisation.

Use of computer program to impose requirement to give information

81A.—(1) The Deputy Commissioner of Police may authorise the use of a computer program, operated under the Deputy Commissioner of Police’s oversight, for all or any of the following:

(a) to assess, based on any recorded image or video recording, if there is sufficient evidence that —

- (i) a motor vehicle was involved in an unlawful act that, if proven, would constitute a prescribed offence under this Act or the rules (called in this section the alleged offence) which, for every physical element of the offence, there is no corresponding fault element; and 5
 - (ii) a particular motor vehicle is the motor vehicle mentioned in sub-paragraph (i);
- (b) if there is a positive assessment of the evidence mentioned in paragraph (a), to cause a notice to be issued to the owner of the motor vehicle involved (called in this section the affected owner), requiring the affected owner to give to the Deputy Commissioner of Police, within 14 days after being served with the notice, such information specified in the notice as to — 10
 - (i) the identity and address of the person who was driving the motor vehicle at or about the time of the alleged offence; and 15
 - (ii) the driving licence held by that person. 20
- (2) In addition, a relevant enforcement officer may issue a notice to any person (other than the affected owner) who was or should have been in charge of the motor vehicle mentioned in subsection (1) (called in this section the affected person), requiring the affected person to give to the relevant enforcement officer, within 14 days after being served with the notice, any information which the affected person has power to give and which may lead to the identification of the driver. 25
- (3) An affected owner who fails to give the information as required of the affected owner under subsection (1)(b) is guilty of an offence unless the affected owner proves, on a balance of probabilities, that the affected owner did not know and could not with reasonable diligence have ascertained the information required. 30

(4) In a case where it is assessed under subsection (1)(a) that a motor vehicle was involved in an unlawful act that, if proven, would constitute an alleged offence which is specified in Part 1 of the Third Schedule, and the affected owner —

- 5 (a) is guilty of an offence under subsection (3); and
- (b) holds a driving licence, the affected owner is presumed, until the contrary is proved, to have been the driver of the motor vehicle at the time of the occurrence of the firstmentioned offence.

- 10 (5) For the purposes of subsection (3), where the affected owner is a company, a partnership or an unincorporated body, the affected owner is not taken to have discharged the burden of proving that it could not, with reasonable diligence, have ascertained the information required under subsection (1)(b)
- 15 unless the affected owner also proves, on a balance of probabilities, that —

- (a) the affected owner had kept a proper and accurate record as required under section 81C(1); but
- 20 (b) the record shows no person having been permitted by the affected owner to drive the motor vehicle at or about the time of the alleged offence.

(6) An affected person who fails to give the information as required of the affected person under subsection (2) is guilty of an offence.

- 25 (7) Where —

- (a) a notice under subsection (1)(b) is served on an affected owner; or
- (b) a notice under subsection (2) is served on an affected person,

- 30 the affected owner or affected person (as the case may be) may apply within the prescribed time to the Deputy Commissioner of Police to revoke the notice on the basis that —

(c) at the time of the alleged offence, the motor vehicle mentioned in subsection (1) was not at the place of the alleged offence; or

(d) at the time of the alleged offence, the motor vehicle mentioned in subsection (1) was at the place of the alleged offence, but the alleged offence had not occurred.

(8) Where an application is made under subsection (7), the Deputy Commissioner of Police or any public officer authorised by the Deputy Commissioner of Police must —

10

(a) review the evidence mentioned in subsection (1)(a); and

(b) confirm or revoke the notice which was issued to the affected owner or affected person, as the case may be.

(9) Within the prescribed time and subject to any prescribed conditions, the Deputy Commissioner of Police or any public officer authorised by the Deputy Commissioner of Police may take the steps set out in subsection (8) even if no application is made under subsection (7).

15

Other offences and evidential provisions relating to requirement to give information

20

81B.—(1) A person required under section 81(1) or (2) or 81A(1)(b) or (2) to give information commits an offence if —

(a) the person —

(i) provides, or causes or permits to be provided, any information in connection with the requirement, which is false or misleading in a material particular; and

25

(ii) knows or ought reasonably to know that, or is reckless as to whether, the information is false or misleading in a material particular; or

30

(b) the person intentionally alters, suppresses or destroys any information which the person is required under section 81(1) or (2) or 81A(1)(b) or (2) to give, for the purpose of not leading to the identification of the driver.

(2) A person commits an offence if the person pretends, or falsely represents (by word or conduct) himself or herself, to be a person who was driving the motor vehicle at or about the time of an alleged offence that is the subject of a requirement made under section 81(1) or (2) or 81A(1)(b) or (2), knowing that he or she was not the driver of the motor vehicle.

(3) A person who is guilty of an offence under subsection (1) or (2) shall be liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding $10,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 12 months or to both.

(4) Any person required under section 81(1) or (2) or 81A(1)(b) or (2) to give information may also be required to give the information in writing duly signed by that person.

(5) Despite any other written law to the contrary, any information given under subsection (4), section 81 or 81A by any person charged with any offence under this Act or the rules or any offence in connection with the driving of a motor vehicle may be used as evidence without proof of signature at the hearing of the charge.

(6) Despite any other written law to the contrary, any statement made by any person to a relevant enforcement officer —

(a) that a motor vehicle was on a particular occasion being driven by or belonged to that person; or

(b) that a motor vehicle belonged to a firm in which that person also stated that he or she was a partner or to a corporation of which that person stated that he or she was a director, officer or employee, is admissible in evidence without proof of signature for the purpose of determining by whom the motor vehicle was on that occasion being driven or who was in charge of it or to whom it belonged.

(7) Any person who is guilty of an offence under section 81(3) or (6) or 81A(3) or (6) shall be liable on conviction —

(a) to a fine not exceeding $1,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 3 months or to both; and

(b) in the case of a second or subsequent conviction, to a fine not exceeding $2,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 6 months or to both.

Record-keeping requirements for corporate owners of motor vehicles, etc.

81C.—(1) Where the owner of a motor vehicle is a company, a partnership or an unincorporated body, it is the duty of the owner to keep (and to that end designate at least one of its responsible officers to ensure the keeping of) a proper and accurate record of each occasion on which any person is permitted by the owner to drive the motor vehicle, whether or not the person is a director, member, partner, officer, employee or agent of the owner or otherwise, and whether or not the person is permitted to drive the motor vehicle in the course of his or her employment with the owner or otherwise.

(2) The record required to be kept under subsection (1) —

(a) must contain —

(i) the registration number of the motor vehicle;

(ii) the name, address, driving licence number (whether local or foreign) and identity card or passport number of the person permitted by the owner of the motor vehicle to drive the motor vehicle; and

(iii) the date and time, or the period, during which the motor vehicle is allocated to the person for him or her to drive it; and

(b) must be retained by the owner of the motor vehicle for a period of at least 12 months beginning with the date, or with the date of the start of the period, mentioned in paragraph (a)(iii).

(3) In subsection (1), “responsible officer” means —

(a) for a company, the person for the time being holding the office of chairperson, managing director or company secretary of, or any position analogous to any of those offices in, the company;

(b) for a partnership, any partner of the partnership; or

(c) for an unincorporated body of persons, the person for the time being holding the office of president, secretary or treasurer of the governing body or a committee (or an equivalent body) of, or any position analogous to any of those offices in, the body of persons, and includes any person carrying out the duties of any such office mentioned in paragraph (a), (b) or (c) if that office is vacant.”.

Amendment of section 84

22. In the RT Act, in section 84 —

(a) replace subsection (9) with —

“(9) Where —

(a) a person (A) is convicted of an offence under subsection (7) arising from A’s failure to comply with subsection (3); and

(b) the court convicting A is satisfied that A had in driving or attempting to drive a motor vehicle at the time of the accident mentioned in subsection (3) caused any serious injury or death to another person, the court is to order that A be disqualified from holding or obtaining a driving licence for a disqualification period that is equal to or longer than 12 months, unless the court for special reasons thinks fit to not so order, or to order a shorter disqualification period.”; and

(b) after subsection (11), insert —

“(12) In this section, “disqualification period”, for an offender (A) convicted of an offence (called in this subsection the relevant offence) under subsection (7) arising from A’s failure to comply with subsection (3), means the period for which A is disqualified from holding or obtaining a driving licence because of that conviction for the relevant offence, starting on the later of the following dates:

(a) the date of A’s conviction for the relevant offence;

(b) the date A is released from prison and is no longer serving any sentence of imprisonment, if A is or was sentenced to imprisonment (whether for the relevant offence or any other offence) before or at the same hearing where A is sentenced for the relevant offence.”.

Amendment of section 116

23. In the RT Act, in section 116 —

(a) in subsection (9), replace “, unless the court for special reasons thinks fit to not order or to order a shorter period of disqualification, order that the person be disqualified from holding or obtaining a driving licence for a period that is equal to or longer than 12 months starting on the date of the person’s conviction or, if the person is sentenced to imprisonment, on the date of the person’s release from prison” with “order that the person be disqualified from holding or obtaining a driving licence for a disqualification period that is equal to or longer than 12 months, unless the court for special reasons thinks fit to not so order, or to order a shorter disqualification period”; and

(b) after subsection (9), insert —

“(10) In this section, “disqualification period”, for an offender convicted of an offence (called in this subsection the relevant offence) under subsection (7), means the period for which the offender is disqualified from holding or obtaining a driving licence because of that conviction for the relevant offence, starting on the later of the following dates:

(a) the date of the offender’s conviction for the relevant offence;

(b) the date the offender is released from prison and is no longer serving any sentence of imprisonment, if the offender is or was sentenced to imprisonment (whether for the relevant offence or any other offence) before or at the same hearing where the offender is sentenced for the relevant offence.”.

Amendment of section 133

24. In the RT Act, in section 133, delete subsection (2).

PART 2

AMENDMENT OF MOTOR VEHICLES (THIRD-PARTY RISKS AND COMPENSATION) ACT 1960

Amendment of section 3

25. In the Motor Vehicles (Third-Party Risks and Compensation) Act 1960, in section 3 —

(a) in subsection (3), replace “period of disqualification” with “disqualification period”;

(b) in subsection (3), replace “period of 12 months starting on the date of the person’s conviction or, if the person is sentenced to imprisonment, on the date of the person’s release from prison” with “disqualification period of 12 months”; and

(c) after subsection (8), insert —

“(9) In this section, “disqualification period”, for an offender convicted of an offence (called in this subsection the relevant offence) under this section, means the period for which the offender is disqualified from holding or obtaining a driving licence because of that conviction for the relevant offence, starting on the later of the following dates:

(a) the date of the offender’s conviction for the relevant offence;

(b) the date the offender is released from prison and is no longer serving any sentence of imprisonment, if the offender is or was sentenced to imprisonment (whether for the relevant offence or any other offence) before or at the same hearing where the offender is sentenced for the relevant offence.”.

PART 3

SAVING AND TRANSITIONAL PROVISION

Saving and transitional provision

26. For a period of 2 years after the date of commencement of any provision of this Act, the Minister may, by regulations, prescribe any provisions of a saving or transitional nature consequent on the enactment of that provision that the Minister may consider necessary or expedient.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

This Bill seeks to amend the Road Traffic Act 1961 (the RTA) and the Motor Vehicles (Third-Party Risks and Compensation) Act 1960 (the MVTRCA).

Part 1 (clauses 2 to 24) amends the RTA for the following main purposes:

- (a) to provide that where disqualification from holding or obtaining a driving licence is imposed on an offender who is imprisoned (for any offence), the disqualification period is to start only after the offender is released from prison;
- (b) to introduce new road traffic offences and amend existing offence and penalty provisions;
- (c) to allow the Deputy Commissioner of Police (Deputy Commissioner) to authorise the use of a computer program (operated under the Deputy Commissioner's oversight) to impose information requirements;
- (d) to make other miscellaneous amendments.

Part 2 (clause 25) amends the MVTRCA to provide that where disqualification from holding or obtaining a driving licence is imposed on an offender who is imprisoned (for any offence), the disqualification period is to start only after the offender is released from prison.

Part 3 (clause 26) provides for a saving and transitional provision.

Clause 1 relates to the short title and commencement.

PART 1

AMENDMENT OF ROAD TRAFFIC ACT 1961

Part 1 (clauses 2 to 24) amends the RTA.

Clause 2 amends section 36(7) to allow the court to order a person convicted of a new section 63A offence to be disqualified from holding or obtaining a driving licence until the person has since the date of the order passed the prescribed test of competence to drive.

Clause 3 amends section 42(1) to introduce the term “disqualification period”. The clause also inserts the new section 42(5) which defines that term. Under the new section 42(5)(a), where a disqualification order is made under section 42(1) and the offender is not imprisoned, the disqualification period starts on the date of the offender's conviction for the offence in relation to which the disqualification order is imposed (the relevant offence). However, under the new section 42(5)(b), if the offender was earlier already sentenced to imprisonment or the offender is sentenced to imprisonment at the same hearing where the offender is sentenced for the relevant offence, the disqualification period only begins when the offender is released from prison and is no longer serving any sentence of imprisonment. It does not matter whether the imprisonment is imposed for the relevant offence or for an unrelated offence. The disqualification period does not start when an offender is released for employment preparation, on external placement or for home detention, as an offender released for any of these purposes is still serving the offender's sentence of imprisonment.

Clause 4 consequentially replaces the definition of "disqualification period" in section 42B(2) to make it consistent with the other definitions of "disqualification period" in the RTA (as amended by the Bill).

Clause 5 amends section 47C(1A) to allow the Deputy Commissioner to suspend the driving licence of a person who is being investigated for a possible commission of an offence under the new section 63A.

Clause 6 inserts a new section 63A (Purposeful endangerment using motor vehicle). Under the new section 63A, it is an offence (called a section 63A offence) if —

- (a) a person (X) drives a motor vehicle on a road in such a manner which endangers the life or safety of any person;
- (b) X drives in that manner for the purpose of endangering the life or safety of a particular person (Y); and
- (c) death or grievous hurt is caused to any person (whether or not the person is Y) by X's driving of the motor vehicle.

For the purposes of a section 63A offence, it does not matter whether the person whose life or safety is endangered, or the victim to whom death or grievous hurt is caused, is in a vehicle (including a bicycle).

Due to the egregious nature of a section 63A offence, a person who is guilty of the offence shall be punished with imprisonment for a term not exceeding 15 years and, in addition, shall be liable to a fine or to caning, or to both. The offender will also be disqualified for life from holding or obtaining a driving licence, unless the court for special reasons thinks fit to order a shorter disqualification period that is equal to or longer than 10 years.

Clause 7(a) amends section 64(7)(a) to increase the maximum imprisonment term that may be imposed for a case of reckless or dangerous driving causing grievous hurt. Clause 7(b) similarly amends section 64(7)(b) which applies to a repeat offender. Next, clause 7(c) amends section 64(7)(c) to increase the maximum imprisonment term which may be additionally imposed on a serious offender. Clause 7(d) similarly amends section 64(7)(d) which applies to a serious repeat offender.

Clause 7(e) and (g) replaces the term “period of disqualification” with “disqualification period” so that the new definition inserted by clause 7(j) will apply.

Clause 7(f) inserts the actual commencement date to help a reader of the RTA.

Clauses 7(h) and 8(f) amend sections 64(11)(a)(ii) and 65(11)(a)(ii), respectively, to include a past conviction for a section 63A offence for the purpose of the definition of “repeat offender”.

Clause 7(i) aligns subsection (12) with a similar provision in the new section 63A(4).

Clause 7(j) replaces the definition of “disqualification period” with one similar to that in the new section 42(5) (see the explanation above for clause 3).

Clause 8(a) and (b) amends section 65(7)(c) and (d), respectively, so that the maximum imprisonment terms mentioned in those provisions are the same as those in section 64(7)(c) and (d) (as amended by clause 7(c) and (d)). The effect is to increase the maximum imprisonment terms which may be additionally imposed on serious offenders and serious repeat offenders in cases of driving without due care and attention or reasonable consideration and grievous hurt is caused.

Clause 8(c), (d) and (e) makes similar amendments as those in clause 7(e), (f) and (g), respectively.

Clause 9 amends section 65AA to provide for the forfeiture of a motor vehicle that has been used in the commission of the new section 63A offence.

Clause 10 amends section 65B(1) so that it is an offence for a driver to hold a mobile communication device while the vehicle is in motion on a road or in a public place. It is no longer an element of the offence that the driver operates any of the mobile communication device’s communicative or other functions. Clause 10 further makes clear that touching a mobile communication device secured in a mounting affixed to the vehicle (as intended by the mounting’s manufacturer) does not constitute holding the device. Clause 10(d) simplifies the definition of “repeat offender” to refer to an offence under subsection (1) from time to time amended, and the repealed section 65B.

Clause 11 makes 3 key changes to section 67. First, clause 11(b) amends section 67(1)(b) to extend the offence to persons who drive or attempt to drive a motor vehicle with the proportion of alcohol in his or her breath or blood being equal to the prescribed limit.

Second, clause 11(d) inserts the new section 67(1)(c) which makes it an offence for a person to drive or attempt to drive a motor vehicle on a road or other public place if the person has a specified substance present in his or her blood. A definition of “specified substance” will be inserted (by clause 19(g)) into section 72. It means any substance which is a controlled drug (within the meaning given by section 2 of the Misuse of Drugs Act 1973), a psychoactive substance or an intoxicating substance. The terms “psychoactive substance” and “intoxicating substance” are already defined in the existing section 72.

Relatedly, clause 11(e) inserts a new section 67(1A) which provides a statutory defence for the new section 67(1)(c) offence. It is a defence for the defendant to prove, on a balance of probabilities, 2 things. The first is that the specified substance was lawfully smoked, inhaled, used or consumed by, or lawfully administered to or by, the defendant as authorised or exempted under the relevant legislation. The second is that the defendant did not know or have reason to believe that the smoking, inhalation, use or consumption by, or the administration to or by, the defendant of the specified substance would affect his or her capacity (at the time of the alleged offence) to have proper control of a motor vehicle.

Third, clause 11(f) and (g) introduces the term “disqualification period” into section 67(2) and (2A), respectively; and clause 11(h) replaces section 67(4) with a new section 67(4) that includes a definition of that term which is similar to that in the new section 42(5) (see the explanation above for clause 3). The effect of this change is that in a future case on the same facts as Ng Soon Kiat v Public Prosecutor [2026] 1 SLR 45, the offender’s disqualification period would commence on the date of the offender’s release from prison (regardless of whether the offender was imprisoned for an offence under section 67 or for any other offence). Clause 11(h) also reproduces the definition of “repeat offender” in the current section 67(4) which is unchanged.

Clause 12 amends section 67A to make an amendment consequential to the addition of the new section 63A offence to provide enhanced punishment in respect of the new offence. The clause also inserts the operative date of the previous amendments to section 67A(3) to help the reader, but the same amendments were not made to subsection (1) as it will be replaced by section 71(a) of the Criminal Law (Miscellaneous Amendments) Act 2025 when it comes into force.

Clause 13(b) makes an amendment to section 68(1)(b) which corresponds to the amendment to section 67(1)(b). Clause 13(d) introduces a new offence in section 68(1)(c) which corresponds to the new offence in section 67(1)(c). Clause 13(e) introduces a new statutory defence in section 68(1A) for the new offence in section 68(1)(c) which corresponds to the new statutory defence in the new section 67(1A). Clause 13(f) replaces section 68(2). In the new section 68(2)(a) and (b), the reference to the proportion of alcohol in the person’s breath or blood is updated to include a reference to the proportion of alcohol being equal to or exceeding the prescribed limit (see the new section 68(2)(a)(ii) and (b)(ii)). This is for consistency with the amendments to sections 67(1)(b) and 68(1)(b) explained above. In addition, the new section 68(2)(a)(iii) and (b)(iii) is included in light of the new offence in section 68(1)(c) above.

Clause 14 amends section 69 to remove the current requirement for a preliminary breath test to be conducted before a police officer may require a person to provide a breath specimen for a breath test. Under the RTA, only the result from a breath test (and not a preliminary breath test) is admissible as evidence of the proportion of alcohol in a specimen of breath under section 71A, provided that the requirements under section 71A are met. Moving forward, a police officer may conduct a breath test at the first instance at or near the place where the requirement is made, or if the police officer thinks fit, at a specified police station. A police officer may also, before requiring a breath test, subject a person to a passive breath test, which is a contactless test using ambient air samples to assess whether there is alcohol present in the person's breath. Clause 14 also inserts a new section 69(4A) to provide for enhanced penalties in certain specified circumstances if a person, without reasonable excuse, fails to provide a breath specimen for a breath test when required to do so.

Clause 15 amends section 70 for several purposes. First, clause 15 removes the references to a breath test as a consequence of the amendments to section 69 by clause 14. Second, under the new section 70(1), a police officer may require a person (X) to provide a blood specimen if X is arrested under section 69(5), or if X is a hospital patient and the police officer has reasonable cause to suspect that X has alcohol in X's body or is under the influence of a drug, a psychoactive substance or an intoxicating substance. Third, the new section 70(2) sets out exhaustively the situations when a police officer may require a person arrested under section 69(5) to provide a blood specimen.

Clause 16 replaces section 71. The new section 71 now provides that before taking a specimen of breath or blood from a person (X), certain specified persons must be satisfied that the taking of the specimen does not endanger X.

Clause 17 inserts the new section 71A(1B) to provide that in proceedings for an offence under the new section 67(1)(c) or 68(1)(c), where a specified substance is present in a specimen of blood provided by the accused under section 70, it is to be assumed that the specified substance was present in the accused's blood at the time of the alleged offence. However, under the new section 71(2A), such an assumption must not be made if the accused proves that he or she consumed or was administered the specified substance after he or she had ceased to drive, attempt to drive or be in charge of a motor vehicle and before he or she had provided the blood specimen. In addition, the accused must prove that had he or she not done so (or been so administered) the specified substance would not have been present in his or her blood.

Clause 18 amends section 71B to extend the provisions to a nurse.

Clause 19 amends section 72 for several purposes. First, clause 19 amends the definition of "prescribed limit" to lower the prescribed breath alcohol concentration and blood alcohol concentration limits for the purposes of an offence under sections 67 and 68. Second, clause 19 inserts new definitions of “nurse”, “passive breath test” and “specified substance” for the purposes of the amendments made to sections 67 to 71B by clauses 11 to 18, respectively.

Clause 20 amends section 79(5) to specify that disqualification takes effect from the date the person is released from prison and is no longer serving any sentence of imprisonment.

Clause 21 replaces the existing section 81 with new sections 81, 81A, 81B and 81C. The new section 81 preserves several provisions from the existing section 81, with adaptations. The new section 81(7) defines the new term “relevant enforcement officer”. The new section 81 thus incorporates the amendments made by section 74 of the Land Transport and Related Matters Act 2026 (which has not been brought into force as at 7 July 2026).

The new section 81A(1) provides a new power for the Deputy Commissioner to authorise the use of a computer program, operated under the Deputy Commissioner’s oversight, to do 2 things. The first is to assess if there is sufficient evidence that a particular motor vehicle was involved in an unlawful act that, if proven, would constitute a prescribed offence under the RTA or rules made under the RTA. Only offences that, for every physical element of the offence, there is no corresponding fault element, can be prescribed for the purposes of the new section. The second (which can only be done if the assessment mentioned above is that there is sufficient evidence) is to cause a notice to be issued to the owner of the motor vehicle, requiring the owner to provide the same information as may be required of the owner under the new section 81(1).

The new section 81A(7) allows the recipients of notices served under the new section 81A(1)(b) or (2) to apply within the prescribed time to the Deputy Commissioner to revoke the notice on the basis that the motor vehicle in question was not at the place of the alleged offence, or that it was there but the offence had not occurred. The new section 81A(8) requires the Deputy Commissioner (or any public officer authorised by the Deputy Commissioner) to review the evidential basis for the issuance of the notice to the affected owner or affected person, and confirm or revoke the notice. This ensures that in every case where an application is made under the new section 81A(7), the evidential basis for the issuance of the notice in question undergoes human review and is confirmed or revoked by a human (the Deputy Commissioner or any public officer authorised by the Deputy Commissioner, as mentioned above). Even if no application is made under the new section 81A(7), the new section 81A(9) allows the Deputy Commissioner (or any public officer authorised by the Deputy Commissioner) to take the steps set out in the new section 81A(8).

The new sections 81B and 81C contain provisions from the existing section 81 which supplement both the new sections 81 and 81A.

Clauses 22 and 23 amend sections 84 and 116, respectively, to introduce the term “disqualification period” and to insert a definition of that term which is similar to that in the new section 42(5) (see the explanation above for clause 3).

Clause 24 deletes subsection (2) of section 133.

PART 2

AMENDMENT OF MOTOR VEHICLES (THIRD-PARTY RISKS AND COMPENSATION) ACT 1960

Part 2 (clause 25) amends the MVTRCA.

Clause 25 amends section 3(3) to introduce the term “disqualification period”, and inserts the new section 3(9) which provides a definition for that term which is similar to that in the new section 42(5) of the RTA (see the explanation above for clause 3).

PART 3

Part 3 (clause 26) provides for a power to make saving and transitional provisions.

Clause 26 empowers the Minister to make regulations prescribing any provisions of a saving or transitional nature consequent on the enactment of any provision of the Bill, that the Minister may consider necessary or expedient. The Minister has power to do so only within 2 years after the commencement of the provision.

EXPENDITURE OF PUBLIC MONEY

This Bill will not involve the Government in any extra financial expenditure.
